

CALOMEL SICKENS! IT SALIVATES! DON'T STAY BILIOUS, CONSTIPATED

I Guarantee "Dodson's Liver Tone" Will Give You the Best Liver and Bowel Cleansing You Ever Had—Don't Lose a Day's Work!

Calomel makes you sick; you lose a day's work. Calomel is quicksilver and it salivates; calomel injures your liver.

If you are bilious, feel lazy, sluggish and all knocked out, if your bowels are constipated and your head aches or stomach is sour, just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone instead of using sickening, salivating calomel. Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working. You'll be cheerful; full of vigor and ambition.

Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal guarantee that it will clean your sluggish liver better than nasty calomel; it won't make you sick and you can eat anything you want without being salivated. Your druggist guarantees that each spoonful will start your liver, clean your bowels and straighten you up by morning or you can have your money back. Children gladly take Dodson's Liver Tone because it is pleasant tasting and doesn't gripe or cramp or make them sick.

I am selling millions of bottles of Dodson's Liver Tone to people who have found that this pleasant, vegetable, liver medicine takes the place of dangerous calomel. Buy one bottle on my sound, reliable guarantee. Ask your druggist or storekeeper about me.

NEWS and GOSSIP OF WASHINGTON

President Wilson's Plunge in Cotton Is Ended

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson's adventure in cotton has come to an end. A year ago in the midst of the "buy-a-bale-of-cotton" excitement he sought to encourage the cotton-growers of the South by buying three bales of the staple. One of these bales was bought in Texas, one in Georgia and one in Oklahoma. Contrary to common report, the cotton was never shipped to the national capital, and therefore was not stored in the White House basement. It remained in the warehouses of the South until arrangements were made for its sale.

Some time ago one bale was turned over by the president to a cotton celebration in New York state, which sold it at auction and made a handsome profit. The president did not receive any of the money from this sale. In other words, the bale was a clear gift to the organization that disposed of it. Another bale was disposed of in Oklahoma, through Senators Owen and Gore, with the understanding that the proceeds from it would go to some charity, the charity to be selected by the two senators. It is understood here that they have bestowed the money on a Masonic home in Oklahoma City. Here again the president was a loser to the extent of the money he put in the bale when he purchased it. The third bale was sold by the president at 10 cents a pound, the price he paid for the three bales. He held on to this third bale a good while, but when one day a telegram came from the warehouse people offering to take the cotton off his hands at the price he paid for it, he answered in the affirmative.

How the Bureau of Census Manages to Keep Busy

PERSONS who hold the usual opinion that the census bureau makes enumeration only every ten years and spends the intervening time compiling the data into various reports are far from the truth. As a matter of fact regular investigations of various kinds are in progress practically all of the time, separated by intervals ranging from two weeks to ten years, and in addition special investigations of almost any nature can, under the law, be demanded of Uncle Sam's statisticians at any time by the president, either house of congress or the director of the census himself. Recently an entirely new field of this sort has been opened up and, now that the ice has been broken and precedents created, promises to make much additional work for the bureau.

The new activity is the counting of noses between decennial censuses in rapidly growing communities, at local expense. The first town to feel that the census figures of 1910 have been so far outdistanced as to libel the community was Tulsa, Okla. The immediate incentive that made an official "by-census" desirable in this southwestern town was the wish of the local commercial club to have the municipality put out a bond issue for improvements that was larger than the corporation, according to its 1910 population rating. The count was completed in six days, and the bill for expenses, slightly over $500, was paid by the Tulsa Commercial club.

Hardly had the first special municipal census been completed when the census bureau was called on to begin work on another such job. This time the request was from the municipal government of Hamtramck, Mich., a town just outside of Detroit, that has been greatly enlarged by the location there of a large automobile manufacturing industry.

Many Varieties of Trees Found in Washington

THE intention of the government to create a national arboretum in the upper part of Rock Creek park recalls the apparently little-known fact that already the trees that grow in Washington constitute a vast arboretum, though the fact that the trees are so scattered detracts from the interest and value of the collection.

It has been said that a feature of the national capital and one which distinguishes it above other cities is its wealth of foliage and multitude of tree forms. It is not only in the extent of its urban woodland that Washington stands first among cities, but also in the number of varieties of trees. Northern and southern, eastern and western, lowland, highland, marsh and mountain forms of trees grow in the streets, parks and gardens.

It is no doubt true that the part of the city where the greatest number of tree families are represented is the park which surrounds the buildings of the department of agriculture. The place where the next greatest number of tree forms may be seen is either the National Botanic garden or the capitol grounds. There was an effort, and rather a successful effort, to gather in the capitol grounds specimens of most of the trees of the United States which could endure the climate of this latitude.

A man who knows something about trees may identify within ten minutes' walk Japanese crabapple trees, wild black cherry, chinaberry trees, choke cherries, sassafras, dogwoods, black haws, sweet gum and blue gum, hawthorne, horse chestnut and many members of the soapberry family. One may look at white and paper mulberry trees, great laurel, Japan lemon, Norway, sugar, rock and silver maple, Siberian pea trees, princess trees of the figwort family from China and Japan, and in the capitol grounds will be found silver bell trees of the storax family.

Seats of the Mighty Sell for Proverbial Song

SEATS of the mighty, so frequently coveted, were in little demand here the other day. Chairs occupied for more than thirty years by prominent judges of the District supreme court, living and dead, when holding conferences in the general-term room on weighty questions of law, sold for the proverbial "song" when offered at auction by Adam A. Wescher under direction of United States Marshal Spain. Large, roomy, high-backed revolving and tilting chairs, once handsomely upholstered in real leather, were "knocked down" at prices ranging from $2 to 50 cents each.

The occasion was the triennial sale made by the marshal outside the court-house building to get rid of discarded furniture and equipment of the city hall. A motley collection of broken chairs, desks and bookcases unused for some time and several discarded carpets were included in the sale, in addition to the furniture of the old general term consultation room. The equipment of this room remained unchanged from 1882 until last year, when Chief Justice Covington secured new furniture and carpets to replace the old chairs and settees which were much worn and had assumed an unrepresentable appearance.

Some of the articles offered by the auctioneer brought good prices, but the low figures placed by the crowd on the discarded "judgment seats" was the subject of comment.
